Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme

Background

For as long as I can remember I have had an interest in insects, as a boy I would spend my summer holidays catching butterflies, hunting down grasshoppers and feeding hapless flies to hungry spiders. When I started fly-fishing detailed study of the insects that the fish I was trying to catch actually fed on, was for me, a natural development. I have since spent many years collecting and studying the mayflies (Ephemeroptera) and stoneflies (Plecoptera). With the mayfly species I was especially keen to try and understand the different ways these enigmatic creatures transform from the nymph stage to the adult dun stage (subimagines). Obviously, knowledge from this has helped my fly-fishing.

In more recent years my curiosity started to turn to the world of caddisflies (Trichoptera) but my fly-fishing books had only the briefest of information and I wanted to know much more. Since 1993 I have had the great fortune to fly-fish with various fly-fishing teams representing England, as a result I have fly-fished in many different countries. During my travels and fishing at these events I have met with anglers from all over the world who also have a keen interest in the entomological side of the sport. From these meetings it soon became obvious that, with the adult caddisflies especially, our understanding (the UK fly-fisherman's that is) was full of huge gaps.

In the spring of 2006 I had a letter printed in Fly-Fishing & Fly-Tying, a popular and informative UK based fly-fishing magazine. In this letter I appealed for help from the readers, I needed them to catch and send me any adult caddisflies they came across whilst out fishing. My idea was then to identify these specimens and create a database of where & when our different adult caddisfly species are on the wing, the aim being to get a better understanding of adult caddisflies and their relationship with the sport of fly-fishing. This was the birth of the Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme.

Since the scheme started I have had numerous samples sent in and the database has grown steadily. I have also enrolled other "collectors" (who are not anglers); these have included my family & friends and members of various local natural history societies. To be honest anyone who has shown even the slightest interest has been roped in! This has expanded the areas from which I receive samples to beyond that of the fly-fishing related sites, as a result, an even greater variety of species are now starting to come through.

Each year all the data is sent on to Dr. Ian Wallace (from The National Trichoptera Recording Scheme), the National Biodiversity Network, the Freshwater Biological Association, the Riverfly Partnership, Buglife (The Invertebrate Conservation Trust), my local natural history society, all those who send in the samples and anyone else who just asks.

2009 - Brief Review

Do you remember the Barbeque summer of 2009? No, neither do I! It was another poor summer but the spring and autumn were at least more settled. And, then along came winter! One of the longest and coldest I can remember for a long while.

However, and despite the mixed weather, the caddisflies had to carry on with their lifecycles. The number of sample tubes sent in to be analysed was huge during 2009 and over 2000 individual caddisflies had to be identified and catalogued. A review of these results can be seen on the chart. It is also worthy of note that during 2009 over 100 different species have been sent in from the chalkstreams in the south to lochs and rivers of the Orkneys in the north. A truly fantastic effort from everyone involved.

Every single adult caddisfly sample is important to the scheme but I would like to make special mention to Simon Roddis who supplied very regular samples from his moth trap throughout 2009. Plus, Chris Avery and Heather Olsen, who once again, sent in many samples regularly from their own local waters.

Another special thanks must go to Andrew Dixon and Louis Kitchen for help with identifications. When I was snowed under with samples Andrew and Louis both volunteered to help me out with the identification and you will see their initials many times in the "determiner" column. Talking of identifications, you will see the name Potamophylax INDET several times in the chart, this is not some strange new species but simply an indication that the females (males are no problem) of some species within this genus cannot reliably be split with the keys we have available at the moment. In a nutshell INDET simply means "indeterminable" due to lack of reliable keys.

The first samples of 2009 came in from Yorkshire during mid March. Samples then came in steadily up until the first week in December when the last sample arrived.

So, to results; on the chart the caddisflies are in alphabetically ordered groups. When more than one sample of a particular species has been found they are themselves listed in "date occurred" order.

I have also presented the data on a CD-ROM. This has given me the chance to show the data in different formats with many photographs of caddisflies too.

The CD-ROM is available for £5.00. Any money raised will go towards the funding of the 2010 scheme. Just post me a cheque (made payable to Torrentis Products) with a stamped SAE and a note requesting the CD.

Last, but by no means least, a huge thank you to everyone who has sent in samples, without you the scheme simply would not exist.

Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Records 2009

In this chart the caddisflies are in alphabetically ordered groups. When more than one sample of a particular species has been found they are listed in "date caught" order

Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme 2010

- If you are already a collector and want to continue to do so during 2010 you do not have to do anything other than just read the notes below as a reminder of how to deal with any samples you get.
- If you are not yet involved with the scheme but would like to take part then please drop me an email (or a letter) so I can send you some collecting tubes and simple instructions.
- If you no longer want to be part of the scheme then please return any tubes you have not used with a note and I can remove your details from my database.

Adult Caddisfly Collecting Notes 2010

If you get any adult caddisflies (but not the larvae) just put them into a tube. As soon as possible put this into a domestic deep freeze for about 2 or 3 minutes. This is considered a humane way to immobilise/kill an adult caddisfly, but please don't leave them in too long as they will drop to bits! Next, fill the tube with either neat vodka (or similar clear spirit such as gin), or a 50/50 mix of isopropyl alcohol and water, any of these will preserve the caddisflies until they can be identified. Please do not use neat isopropyl alcohol or surgical spirit as this desiccates the caddisfly making it very difficult to work with while trying to confirm its identity.

Write on a small slip of paper (see "Helpful Tips" below) in pencil, where (the approximate location) and when (the time & date) you caught the sample along with your name. Put this in the tube with the caddisfly samples (alcohol will have no effect on either the paper or writing in pencil). Please do not stick a label on the tube as these, often, just fall off.

Drop the tube back in the post to me with your name and address along with any other notes of interest on the capture. I can then post back another empty tube in return. You can put the tube in any type of envelope, they do not need to be padded, these tubes are very strong and will not leak. However, you will need to put a "large letter" stamp on the envelope due to its thickness with a tube enclosed.

I do not get much chance to analyse samples until the long winter evenings, hence the reason to preserve them in alcohol.

You can expect many different types of adult caddisfly to be on the wing from mid March to the end of November. They range in size from 3mm to nearly 30mm and we have almost 200 very varied species, most are found near water but they can turn up anywhere, some are very common and others incredibly rare. So, even if you only think you have one please send it along for me to check. Plus, don't worry if you think you have caught the same type twice, again please send it along as this information is useful for the "flight period data".

At the year-end and after all the samples have been identified I will put together an annual review. A copy of the review and data will then be sent to you, from this you will be able to see the species you caught and sent in.

Thank you.

Helpful Tips

Sample of an "information slip" to put inside a tube with specimens:

River Trent, Newark, Notts. NGR SK 792 536 0900hrs 15 July 2010, Fred Smith

You can put several caddis samples in one tube as long as they are from the same venue. Please do not forget to use pencil (ink dissolves in alcohol!)

Using the Ordnance Survey Web Site

It is preferable (but not essential) to send along a six figure National Grid Reference (NGR) along with the approximate sample location name.

To check you have worked out more-or-less the correct locations of a sample you are sending just go to the website:

www.ordnancesurvey.co.uk/oswebsite

Now, type in the box on the webpage what you think is the Grid Reference, and click GO. This will show the actual location of what you have entered in the centre of the map shown, you can see from this if you have got the NGR about right.

As an example try putting in: SE246033 (please note there is no "space" between the prefix letters or the two 3 digit numbers) and click GO.

You should see Penistone Church slap bang in the middle of the map shown.

Therefore, if this was an area a caddisfly was caught the location would be; Penistone Church, Penistone, S. Yorks with the NGR SE246033

This website can also help in finding a NGR. Just type in the nearest place name into the webpage box and then press GO. You can then move the map around until the approximate area you caught the Caddisfly is in the centre of the map on your screen. Underneath the map, in the text, it will tell you what the grid reference is at that centre point. Easy, and all very useful.

Have fun Mapping!
